ON a Sunday morning in mid-November last year, a host of civil society groups gathered at the KL-Selangor Chinese Assembly Hall to officially pledge their commitment to working for a better tomorrow. Together, they come under the banner Gabungan Bertindak Malaysia (GBM). Saya Anak Bangsa Malaysia is part of this coalition.

But what's that better tomorrow?

The Malaysia Bersih Movement (MBM) is a non-governmental organization (NGO) that is dedicated to promoting transparency and accountability in the Malaysian government. The MBM was founded in 2006 and has since become one of the most prominent civil society organizations in the country. The MBM's primary focus is on advocating for the rule of law and the separation of powers. It has been instrumental in the development of the Malaysian Anti-Corruption Commission (MACC) and the Malaysian Election Commission (EC). The MBM has also been involved in several high-profile cases, including the 1MDB scandal and the 2018 general election. The MBM's efforts have been recognized internationally, and it has received numerous awards and accolades. The MBM's work is ongoing, and it continues to be a leading voice for reform in Malaysia.
